Becky DiCocco received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Speech-Language Pathology and Audiology from Towson University. In 2003, she graduated from Loyola College with her Master of Science Degree in Speech-Language Pathology. She is a member of the American Speech Hearing Association (ASHA), and a member of the Maryland Speech Hearing Association. Becky is licensed in the state of Maryland and holds a Certificate of Clinical Competence through ASHA.

Becky has extensive experience evaluating and treating children diagnosed with autism in both school and home-based settings. She is trained in Picture Exchange System Communication, SCERTS and ABA discrete trial. She focuses on using the strengths and interests of the child to improve their ability to develop communication skills as well as functional life-skills that promote independence. Becky strongly believes in the importance of early intervention and strong family support to promote better success. She focuses on teaching parents and caregivers how to promote communication in a variety of environments in order to promote generalization. Her professional goal is to improve a child's ability to communicate as well as improve their interaction within their environment and with family.
