Megan Crowley completed her undergraduate studies at Towson University, earning a Bachelor of Science Degree in Speech-Language Pathology/Audiology as well as Psychology. In 1999, she graduated from Towson with her Master of Science Degree in Speech-Language Pathology. Megan is a member of the American Speech-Language Hearing Association (ASHA) and the Association of Baltimore City Speech-Language Pathologists (ABCSP). She is licensed in the state of Maryland and holds the Certificate of Clinical Competence through ASHA.

Megan has significant experience evaluating and providing therapy for children who have a variety of speech, language, and learning disabilities. She worked with preschool, elementary, and middle school-aged children in the public schools for seven years prior to enjoying being home full-time with her two daughters. Watching her own children go through preschool and early elementary school has heightened her awareness of the challenges that every child faces in today's classroom on a daily basis. She is enthusiastic about helping children build their skills in ways that are both fun and functional, so they can be successful communicators in and out of the classroom.
